Will Be Held in Order to Hasten Matters.

MORE ABOUT LOANS MADE

ICE STOCKS APPARENTLY WERE FAVORITE COLLATERAL.

New York, Oct. 19.-With a view to bring the case to an end at the earliest possible moment, it has been practically decided, according to a report current today, to hold night sessions while the court is trying Charles W. Morse and A. H. Curtis, on charges of violation of the national banking laws and conspiracy. The reasons for haste are many, not the least being that the jury, many of whom are men with substantial business interests, must, under an order of the court, remain under close guard until a verdict has been rendered.

Much time had been given last week to testimony regarding actual conditions in the National Bank of North America before the crash, the methods of making loans and attending to other details. Further evidence along the same lines was given today when Frank E. Pringle, one of the bank's loan clerks, was called as the first witness. The questioning indicated it to be the purpose of the prosecution to show that loans made by the bank on "ice" stock had aroused suspicions on the part of the bank employes.

Big Profit for a Woman.

During Pringle's examination there were introduced in evidence a memorandum and a letter showing that Mrs K. T. Gelshenen had made a big profit in a deal in ice stock. The memorandum was in the handwriting of Curtis, one of the defendants, and bore the address "K. T. Gelshenen, 1005 Fifth avenue." There was a cashier's check for $38,865, dated January 5, 1906,
